Israeli Group Trains Black South Africans

A group of black South Africans are being trained in a program in Israel in social organizing and economic leadership skills as preparation for a possible transition of power in the event that apartheid is abolished.

The program is sponsored by Histradrut, Israel's national labor-federation. The emphasis in the program is on organizing trade unions for the nation's 12 million black workers, developing social programs, forming civic groups, and organizing black women as activists.

Legau Mathabathe, co-founder of the Soweto Committee of Ten and a participant in the workshop, said the group's intention was to learn the skills offered by their Israeli hosts necessary to rid South Africa of apartheid. "We are telling the [South African] government 'This is our land. We want to run it. If you wish to join us in running it, please do it on our terms,'" he said.

Another participant, Deborah Mabilesta, executive director of the Urban Foundation, a private South African civic group founded after the 1976 riots, said that the participants in the Israeli program were not involved in tactics to violently overthrow the Pretoria regime, but were trying to learn strategies that would be useful after a peaceful transition to shared rule between blacks and whites.

"Because our struggle is so serious, we need strategies for later, so that we can apply them to our daily lives then," she said. "Looking for strategies is equally as important as taking part in the struggle itself."

The members of the group said that they were openly permitted to leave South Africa and did not run into any interference by the Pretoria regime.

This program marks the first participation in the Israeli program by a group from Black South Africa, although individuals and groups from other Black African nations have taken part over the years.

In months, Israel has re-established diplomatic ties with Zaire and the Ivory Coast and is in the process of re-establishing ties with other Black African nations.

April Is Child Abuse Prevention Month

One out of three girls and one out of ten boys are molested by age 18 - usually by a family member. Counseling helps these children and adult survivors of sexual abuse regain emotional awareness, trust and self worth. Counseling helps deal with the anger, guilt, sadness, love/hate confusion and frozen fellings that result from sexual molestation. Counseling is available at a number of Pierce County counseling agencies including Catholic Community Services. For more information, call Catholic Community Services at 752-2455 or contact the Center for Child Abuse Prevention Services.

Vista Financial Services, Sued By Attorney General

OLYMPIA, -- Vista Financial Services, a mortgage brokerage firm which abruptly closed its offices has been sued by the state for taking loan applications fees from applicants without arranging loans or providing any loan-related services, according to Attorney General Ken Eikenberry.

The owner of the firm, Sevan Davis, is also named as a defendant in the consumer protection action. The firm operated offices in Seattle, Tacoma, Kennewick, Vancouver and Portland, arranging mortgage loans between its customers and independent lenders.

"Our lawsuit contends that customers who wanted to obtain a mortgage through Vista Financial were required to pay from $400 to $2,000 when they applied for a loan," Eikenberry stated. "Though customers were told that the company would process their loan applications and obtain loans from lenders, we assert that the firm failed to process most of the loan requests and obtained few, if any, loans for customers."

After customers had pais the initial fees, the attorney general alleges that Vista denied many loans for "false or contrived" reasons, so it could keep the money.

"This firm advertised it had mortgage money available at nine percent on a 30-day mortgage with no points, which are extremely attractive terms," Eikenberry continued. "Our investigation showed the firm did not actually write up any loan applications at those terms, and we therefore are contending the ads were used only to lure customers."

Eikenberry listed other mirepresentations included in the lawsuit. Vista allegedly told customers their loans would be processed within four to six weeks of their application. The state maintains those deadlines were not met, and in some cases loans had been pending for four months. Also, customers were not told that they would be charged an additional $2,000 "loan fee" when their loan closed, in aditlon to the initial loan application fee.

The state is asking the court for a permanent injunction against the practices, and that the firm be required to pay civil penalties, restitution and court costs. The suit was filed in Pierce County Superior Court by Assistant Attorney General Jay Uchida.

Fair Housing For All Americans

Fair Housing Month is an annual observance of the passage of the Federal Fair Housing Law, Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968.

In a statement issued in Seattle today, William Y. Nishimura, Regional Administrator-Regional Housing Commissioner of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, said, "The Fair Housing Law held the promise for all Americans ...despite their race, sex, or ethnicity...of equal treatment and the opportunity to choose their housing according to their means, whether buying or renting."

"The observance of Fair Housing Month every April is a time for rededication to the purposes of the Fair Housing Law and for reacceptance of the responsibility to make its promise a reality," he said. "As the Law simply states, it is the policy of the United States to provide, within constitutional limitations, for Fair Housing throughout the United States. It is the proper role of every American to help fulfill that law's promise."

"This year, April marks the eighteenth anniversary of passage of the Federal Fair Housing Act, the original legislation targeting the elimination of housing discrimination in America. Americans have come to recognize that the promotion and safeguarding of this right is not just a basic tenet of democracy, it is simple human justice," Nishimura said. "If you have been the victim of housing discrimination, call on HUD's free hot line for help-- 1-800-424-8590."

Libya

WASHINGTON, - The Reagan Administration said today that the American bombing raid on Libya had damaged Libya's ability "to direct and control the export of international terrorism."

It warned Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi, the Libyan leader, that he would face further military retaliation unless he stopped directing violence against Americans.

President Reagan said the American raid on Monday night near the cities of Tripoli and Bengahzi were "a single engagement in a long battle against terrorism."

"We would prefer not to have to repeat the events," Mr. Reagan told members of the American Business Conference in his speech. "What is required is for Libya to end its pursuit of terror for political goals. The choice is theirs."

MISSLES FIRED AT ISLAND

Military officials said there were no confirmed American casualties, and the White House said it was assessing the incident.

But an air and sea search for two Air Force pilots missing after the bombing raid continued after dark in the central Mediterranean. A Pentagon official said, "We have no evidence of survivors."

Less than 15 hours after the American raid, Libya apparently retaliated by firing at least two missiles from a ship or plane at a United States Coast Guard telecommunications station on the Italian island of Lampedusa, about 175 miles north of Libya.f

A Pentagon spokesman, Robert Sims, said it was still ncertain if the missing F-111 fighter-bomber - the only American plane unaccounted for - was struck by antiaircraft fire after completing its bombing mission.

Associated Press

IN ENGLAND: A guard at U.S. air base at Lakenheath, where F-111 bombers landed yesterday, reportedly after raid on Libya.

TRIPOLI, Lybya, - The American planes that attacked early Monday struck a number of military targets, including the headquarters compound of the Libyan leader, Colonel Muammar el-Qaddafi, a naval academy and air bases here and in Bengazi. There was also damage in a residential neighborhood in the capital.

Libyans tried to assess the damage, but there was no publicly available estimate of casualties.

After the raids, at least 15 peopls were reported dead and 60 wounded in the residential neighborhood, hospital workers said.

Among those reported dead was Colonel Qaddafi's 15-month-old adopted daughter. Two other children in his family were reported injured in his hom, which is in a military compound.

The Libyan leader maintained a public silence and his whereabouts was not immediately known. His daughter, Hana, died two and a half hours after suffering a concussion and internal injuries from an explosion next to the Colonel's home. In keeping with custom, she was buried before sunset.

The two injured sons of Colonel Qaddafi's seven surviving children were listed in serious condition in a pediatric hospital from percussion wounds. Doctors said the children were Camis, 3, and Sef al-Arab, 4.

Colonel Qaddafi's wife, Safiya, was said by a family doctor to have suffered from shock from a blast. The colonel himself was widely reported to have escaped injury and was assumed to have been working in a underground command bunker at the time of the attack.

The Qaddafi residence is in the Bab el-Aziziyah Barracks, the colonel's heavily fortified headquarters and living compound in a populated section of the city.

The powerful blast broke windows for blocks around the raised large clouds of smoke in the night sky.

To add to the tension in the capital, antiaicraft flak and missiles suddenly filed the night sky again, although it was not clear that there were any American planes about.

Associated Press

IN TRIPOLI: Wrecked cars strewn about a street after U.S. planes bombed targets in the city.

TRIPOLI-Taher Mohamed Gubbia, his voice shaking in rage, called it terrorism.

He said the American fighter bombers destroyed his home early this morning. His wife's arm was broken in the attack, he said, and his six children were uninjured but frightened.

At least two of his neighbors were killed by American bombs and scores more, some of them foreigners, lie bloody and and bandanged in nearby hospitals. Nearly a half dozen houses in about six blocks of a residential area were blown apart and most of the rest suffered shattered windows, blownout doors and fallen walls.

One bomb dropped within 35 yars of the French Embassy, the blast mangling one side of the building. The nearby residenses if the Swiss and Japanese Ambassadors and the Embassies of Austria And Rumania were damaged to lesser degrees. the wife of an Italian diplomat living in the neighborhood was hit by a shard of window glass in the eye, diplomats said.

The bombing of the Bin Ashur neighborhood was the most apparent early contradiction to statements by Reagan Administ ration officials that the strikes were surgical and successful.

Words Of Wisdom

WHO HATH BELIEVED OUR REPORT? AND TO WHOM IS THE ARM OF THE LORD REVEALED?

FOR HE SHALL GROW UP BEFORE HIM AS A ROOT OUT OF THE GROUND.

HE HATH NO FORM OR COMILINESS: AND WHEN WE SHALL SEE HIM, THERE IS NO BEAUTY THAT WE SHOULD DESIRE HIM.

These are also proverbs of Solomon, which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah copied out.

It is the glory of God to conceal a thing: but the honour of kings is to search out a matter.

The heaven for height, and the earth for depth, and the heart of kings is unsearchable.

Take away the dross from the silver, and there shall come forth a vessel for the finer.

Take away the wicked from before the king, and his throne shall be established in righteousness.

Put not forth thyself in the presence of the king, and stand not in the place of great men:

For better it is that it be said unto thee, Come up hither; than that thou shouldest be put lower in the presence of the prince whom thine eyes have seen.

Go not forth hastily to strive, lest thou know not what to do in the end thereof, when thy neighbour hath put thee to shame.

Debate thy cause with thy neighbour himself; and discover not a secret to another:

Lest he that heareth it put thee to shame, and thine infamy turn not away.

A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver.

As an earring of gold, and an ornament of fine gold, so is a wise reprover upon an obedient ear.

As the cold of snow in the time of harvest, so is a faithful messenger to them that send him: for he refresheth the soul of his masters.

Whoso boasteth himself of a false gift is like clouds and wind without rain.

By long forbearing is a prince persuaded, and a soft tongue breaketh the bone.

Hast thou found honey? eat so much as is sufficient for thee, lest thou be filled therewith, and vomit it.

Withdraw thy foot from thy neighbour's house; lest he be weary of thee, and so hate thee.

A man that beareth false witness against his neighbour is a maul, and a sword, and a sharp arrow.

Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble is like a broken tooth, and a foot out of joint.

As he that taketh away a garment in cold weather, and as vinegar upon nitre, so is he that singeth songs to an heavy heart.

if thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink:

For thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head, and the Lord shall reward thee.

The north wind driveth away rain: so doth an angry countenance a backbiting tongue.

It is better to dwell in the corner of the house top, than with a brawling woman and in a wide house.

As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country.

A righteous man falling down before the wicked is as a troubled fountain, and a corrupt spring.

It is not good to eat much honey: so for men to search their own glory is not glory.

He that hath no rule over his own spirit is like a city thatis broken down, and without walls.

PROVERBS 26 1- 16

As snow in summer, and as rain in harvest, so honour is not seemly for a fool.

As the bird by wandering, as the swallow by flying, so the curse causeless shall not come.

A whip for the horse, a bridle for the ass, and a rod for the fool's back.

Apostle Bishop D.L. Brooks D.D.W.

THE DOCTORS PRESCRIPTION

The Pastor Is Part Of The Family

Who is the pastor/preacher? Is he truly what he seems? To some, he seems to be the epitome of sainthood, awesome, austere, unapproachable.

To others, an enigma - whv should anyone who could do something else want to preach, to receive less money than most of his parishioners, to be accountable to a board or a roup of people who sometimes squable, and many times refuse to agree with him or with each other, to be on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, even to being recalled from his vacations?

To others he is the one whom widows and the sick should call for anything from a ride to the doctor's office to a bottle of milk.

Some see him as what he really is, the shepherd of the flock, the extension of the family. Sometimes he is the setter of disputes between family members or groups within the church. He is that father-figure from whom council is sought for disturbing problems.

He is the one whom many families like to include in special family gatherings the one they introduce as "our pastor" meaning that they count on him to represent them to God and to represent God to them!

He is the one who is called and given the good news about job promotions (or bads news of denials), who is invited to graduations and even the kids' school plays or musical programs.

He is the first called after the parents learn of school bus accidents or car accidents. He meets the family in the emergency room, lets them cry in his arms or holds their hands and reminds them that God is still in control and tells them not to be afraid of "sudden fear" when it comes.

He is that extended family member who goes to the hospital to comfort when terminal illness is diagnosed or to talk to that family member who is ill and still unsaved. He also receives the call, "The baby is on the way; we are leaving for the hospital."

He tries with God's help to become an extension of the family of new Christians, to encourage them by having them in his home and to help them feel a part of the church family.

He is also the one who receives the call that one of the family has gone into eternity, and his strength and presence are needed to remind them that God has someone to whom they can turn.

Family should also be friends, and he is many times the big brother-friend to whom confidences can be told, and one knows they will not be revealed to others. This brother-friend will not forget to pray when there is a family situation that needs special help from God.

The true pastor is not the great dictator, but rather the under-shepherd who identifies (becomes one with) his flock, even as Christ identified with us by becoming one with us.

He is part of the family, whose faithfulness is more necessary today than ever before, and whose reward is greater than ever before!

Drug Patch Controlls High Blood Pressure

There's a new help for high blood pressure patients who keep forgetting to take their pills. Dr. Mark Houston of Vanderbilt University has developed a drug-impregnated skin patch that delivers the drug clonidine through the skin to the bloodstream.

Houston said patients can slap the patch on their chest or arm and forget about medication for seven days. The waterproof patch, which is recommended for people with mild hypertension, can be worn while exercising or bathing.

Exercise Your Options

Here are a few exercises for each of those "problem spots"—your stomach, inner thighs, hips, outer thighs and buttocks. Pick and choose your favorites, but try to do at least one exercise for each body part. Do all of them for a workout that will do wonders for your pre-summer shape-up!

Keep in mind not to overdo it—if you haven't exercised for a while, start out doing a small amount of repetitions for each exercise. Gradually increase your repetitions as you become stronger.

One more thing—don't cramp your style by exercising right after you eat. Wait at least a ½ hour. Otherwise you may get a stomach cramp, because all the blood needed to digest your food will go to your muscles instead of your stomach.

Doing this exercise on a chair rather than on the floor will give you an extra challenge.
● Sit on the edge of a chair or bench, leaning back on your hands for support.
● Put your legs out straight in front of you.
● Bring your knees into your chest.
● Do 25–50 repetitions.

Keeping your legs split will shape up a saggy stomach!
● Lie on your back. Raise your legs up straight and split them apart as wide as possible.
● With your arms straight, reach between your legs, lifting your upper body and head approximately 6–8 inches.
● Let your upper body go back to the floor, but keep your head up.
● Do 25–50 repetitions.

Instead of crossing your arms behind your head, cross them in front of your chest to put some extra muscle in the exercise!
● Lie on your back. Put your left hand on your right shoulder and your right hand on your left shoulder.
● Bend your legs but keep your feet on the floor.
● Keep your head and neck straight, lifting your upper back 4–5 inches off the floor.
● Do 25–50 repetitions, letting your upper back go down to the floor but keeping your chin up.

McCarthy To Play Truman

Kevin McCarthy doesn't look much like Harry S. Truman. He's much taller, for one. And his leading man's good looks hardly resemble the feisty president.

As the star of the one man show, "Give 'Em Hell Harry!", McCarthy doesn't rely on appearance to make a convincing portrait of the president. Once he establishes the character (wth Trumansque gestures like licking the envelope instead of the stamp), he has the audience hooked.

On Saturday, May 3 at 8:00 p.m. McCarthy will bring his one-man political cabaret about the straight-talking president to the Pantages.

Reserved tickets for "Give 'Em Hell Harry!" are $15.50, $13.00 and $10.75 for adults, and $13.50, $11.50 and $9.75 for students and senior citizens (over 62). $4.00 tickets for any remaining seats will be available on May 3 for students and seniors.

Tickets are available at the Pantages Centre, 901 Broadway in Tacoma and at all Ticketmaster outlets. For ticket and event information or to order tickets by telephone call 591-5894, noon to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Mail and phone orders are subject to $1.50 per ticket handling charge. Tickets purchased in person at the Pantages Centre Ticket Office for this event are not subject to a handling charge. All ticket sales are final -- no refunds or exchanges.

Presented by the Pantages Centre, "Give 'Em Hell Harry!" is sponsored by Whitacre Engineering.

Act Open 22nd Mainstage Season

A Contemporary Theatre (ACT) opens its 22nd Mainstage Season on May 1st with On the Razzle, a new "turn-of-the-century" farce by Tom Stoppard. It is an original adaptation of the same German comedy that gave us Hello, Dolly! and The Matchmaker.

On the Razzle tells the hilarious story of two clerks who decide to follow their boss to Vienna for a secret fling "on the razzle." ACT's production will directed by Jeff Steitzer, who likened it to "a farcical circus full of puns and verbal fireworks [set] in a stylized Vienna where people dressed in tarzans and Strauss was played on the bagpipe."

On the razzle begins with previews on April 2q7, 19 & 30; it opens May 1st and runs Tuesday through Sunday until May 30th. Performances are at 8 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, and Sundays at 7 p.m. There are 2 p.m matinees scheduled for May 2, 4, 7, 11 & 17.

ACT is located at the corner of 1st Ave. W. & W. Roy St., at the foot of Queen Anne Hill, near the Seattle Center. It is easily reached by Metro bus routes 1, 2, 13, 15 & 18 and is fully accessible to the handicapped and disabled. ACT accepts all major credit cards.

For tickets and information, call (206)285-5110.

Come To Church Services

I am the true vine, andmy Father is the husbandman.

Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the fine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth for much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.

If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

If ye abide id me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love.

If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Pierce Transit's revenues from cash fares, passes, tokens, and service contracts cover less than 16% of operating costs. despite increased ridership and improved productivity, the farebox recovery rate has steadily declined since 1982. One significant reason for the farebox decline is a 79% increase in monthly pass sales. Cash fares were increased in 1982 and 1984, and peak hours were expanded in January 1986. Pass prices, however, have not increased since January 1982. Reductions in Federal funding and continuing demand for services necessitate pass price increases this year. The planned implementation date for new pass prices is September 1, 1986. Existing and proposed prices are shown below.

Existing		Proposed
* COMMUTER PASS	$18	* Regular Pass	$22

My Favorite Aka

There are 90,000 college-educated Black women in Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. They have over 700 chapters throughout the United States, Africa and the Caribbean.

But what impresses me most about AKA is Mrs. Ruth Norman, my high school English teacher. If you saw "Mrs. Norman, We Love You" or "Is Work A Four Letter Word?" on my television series, you've seen this wonderful lady share with the rest of the country those nuggets of wisdom she gave to the likes of Rev. Leon Sullivan and myself at all-Black Garnet High School in Charleston, West Virginia.

She was then, and is now, so efficient. So inspiring. So educated. So much a lady.

When I stood before the recent South Eastern Regional Conference of AKA in Jackson, Mississippi as the speaker, I told the 1,000 delegates from Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi that I had been reminded of Mrs. Norman, who joined the sorority at Howard, by the conduct of the AKAs there. But that wasn't all I remember about her.

Each day when the bell rang, she said: "So much to learn and so little time to learn it in." She said we would need Polonius' advice to his son Laertes (from Hamlet) when we went out into the world: "This above all, to thine own self be true. And it must follow as the night the day. Thy canst not then be false to any man."

Now in her 80s, Mrs. Norman will attend the AKA Great Lakes regional conference in Charleston, W. Va., where she still lives. She'll miss their Mid-Atlantic regional in Charlotte. But from the Atlanta regional (1,500 delegates) to the ones named above, the AKAs are conducting serious business.

They wanted a new headquarters building in Chicago, so they each put up $25 each and paid for the $2.5 million, 16,800 foot Ivy Center -- in cash.

AKA Supreme Basileus Faye Bryant put their programatic thrust in perspective with an anonymous quote: "Let's get organized for the future. It's too late to organize the present!"

The oldest Greek-letter organization of Black women has adopted the theme: "Alpha Kappa Alpha: Energizing for the Twenty-First Century." One of those areas is economic development.

This year, African-Americans will spend $2.5 billion on conventions and another $200 million in hotels. No major hotel is owned by a Black group.

If the Black Greek-letter franternities and sororities would assume the leadership for buying (and building) major hotels in various regions, it would guarantee us that some of the best minds would be working on a crucial problem. The market is certainly there.

Since the AKAs have shown us how to buy a debt-free national headquarters, maybe AKA can show us some serious hotel development.

Appropriately, Mrs. Norman quoted Henry Van Dyke years ago: "Let me do my work from day to day. In field or forest at the desk or loom. In roaring market place of tranquil room. Let me but find it in my heart to say when vagrant wishes becon me astray. This is my work, by blessing, not my doom. Of all who live, I'm the one by whom this work can best be done in the right way."

If we get that advice straight, we might get serious in the Black community about self-reliance. And speaking of self-reliance, Mrs. Norman said, "The heights by great men reached and kept were not attained by sudden flight. But while their companions slept were toiling upwards through the night."

The kind of character demonstrated by Mrs. Norman and the AKA emphasis as a service organization (along with other Black Greek-letter organizations) is the foundation for our survival plans -- economic or political.

State of Washington Employment Security Department

Summer Employment Opportunities For Young People

Governor Booth Gardner proclaimed the month of April as Student Employment Month. In that regard, now is the time to apply for the Summer Youth Employment and Training program operated by local Private Industry Councils with funds from the federal Job Training Partnership Act.

This summer almost $16 million has been allocated through the Employment Security Department to twelve Service Delivery Areas around the state to assist more than 10,000 young people between 14 and 21. Students out of school for the summer and those who have completed school will have the opportunity for work experience and on-the-job training, placement assistance, educational and job counseling, and academic enhancement.

Although eligibility requirements are based on income, I urge all young people and their parents to look into this resource. As a young person, your eligibility will be determined in the application process. Although the activities of the program take place during the summer, now is the time to apply to take advantage of these valuable opportunities.

In the greater Seattle area applications are available at all community service centers, park and recreation centers, youth service bureaus, Metrocenter YMCA, El Centro de la Raza, Central Area Motivation Program, Seattle Housing Authority, and Seattle Indian Center. In Everett contact Operation Improvement at 258-2766, and in Bremerton the Job Training Center at 478-4620. The Thurston Youth Services Society (943-0780) has applications in Olympia. In Pierce County, contact the Tacoma-Pierce County Employment and Training Consortium at 591-5450. For other locations around the state call (206)438-4524. Applications are also available from most high school counselors.

While over 9 million more people are employed now than in 1982, the trough of the recent recession, young people in this country have experienced a net job loss of over 90,000. Last year, the unemployment rate for 16 to 21 year olds in Washington was nearly 16 percent, and for minorities it averaged over 21 percent. As grim as these numbers are, it is important for all of us to be aware of this situation if we are to effectively reduce these high rates of youth unemployment.

Personally, I believe that with efforts such as the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program we can begin to make significant strides toward the end.

How To Trade Futures Sensibly

Have you noticed how quickly the financial world around us keps changing? The dynamics of such factors as the economy, interest rates, stock and bond prices, international currencies and emerging technologies can directly affect the value of your investments. This effect can be either positive or negative, depending on your investment strategies.

Fortunately, there exists a myriad of investment vehicles that can help you guard against the effects of negative market moves or -- better yet -- harness their volatility into handsome profits!

If this sounds enticing and you have risk capital to invest, you may want to consider speculating in futures. The returns can be far and above those of conventional investments.

Futures contracts are simply obligations to buy or sell a given product at a specific price and date. (Most traders, however, never make to take delivery of the actual product. They normally close out their contracts before expiration.) Until recently, trading centered on agricultural commodities and metals, but now contracts exist for a wide range of financial instruments, such as foreign currencies, interest rates, treasury bonds and bills, and indexes representing the overall value of various groups of stocks, and one closely representing the stock market itself.

Futures trading, briefly, works like this: If you expect the price of a given commodity or financial instrument to rise, you buy one or more futures contracts ("go long"). If you expect the price to fall, you sell contracts ("go short"). You'll make money when you close out your contract if you were right, and you'll lose money if you were wrong.

Today, investment firms offer various managed futures products that reduce the risk, provide professional management and offer the beginner a convenient way to get started in futures trading.

This is one reason why involvement in the futures markets has soared. As shown in the attached chart, the volume of futures contracts traded has expanded 492 percent in the past decade -- far exceeding expectations -- with more expansion forecasted.

This incredible growth also is fueled by the many advantages unique to futures. Here are some of them:

Volatility -- This is the very reason the futures markets exist. Think of it this way: if a futures contract price moves from $30 to $40 then down to $25 and back to $35, you have three opportunities to capitalize on these swings.

Flexibility -- Futures offer double-edged opportunity. You can profit from both increasing prices (by going long) and falling prices (by going short) with equal ease. Few other investment vehicles offer this flexibility.

Leverage -- Futures have considerable leverage, often exceeding 90 percent. In other words, margin requirements frequently are less than 10 percent of contract value. Net result: you can benefit from large gains for little cash up front or you can lose even more than you invested.

Diversity -- As mentioned earlier, futures markets have changed dramatically over the past few years and now include a wide range of commodities. You should ask your Financial Consultant how this variety can be used to increase your opportunities for success and also spread your risk.

(Futures transactions generally involve substantial risk. Some of these risks will be discussed in a subsequent article, "How to Trade Futures Sensibly: Part II." Key points include why you should examine your financial situation before trading, how much money you should be prepared to invest, trading strategies and more. An understanding of these issues is essential to adequately determine whether futures speculating is for you.)

Crime Stoppers also pays cash rewards for information that leads to an arrest and charges filed in any other Felony Case.

Albertson's Denies Allegations Of Wrong Doing

Albertson's, Inc., issued a strong denial of allegations made by the state attorney general's office that an Albertson's supermarket in Tacoma misstated competitors' prices.

On Tuesday, April 8, the Washington state attorney general filed a lawsuit claiming certain comparative price signs at an Albertson's store in Tacoma incorrectly listed some prices charged by other Tacoma supermarkets. The allegations apparently are related to price comparison signs posted in the store during the latter part of 1985.

Thomas R. Saldin, senior vice president and general counsel of Albertson's, Inc., said, "Albertson's comparative price signs are accurate, lawful and ethical. We perform a service for the consumer by comparing our prices on certain items to the prices advertised by neighborhood competitors on those same items."

"There are two major problems with the lawsuit--bad facts and a bad theory," Saldin stated. The facts are flawed, according to Saldin, because the attorney general's office never conducted an inspection of the advertised shelf prices of Albertson's competitors. Instead, the attorney general is depending on faulty information supplied by competitors weeks or months after Albertson's price surveys. Moreover, Saldin, Saldin explained, the attorney general's office has adopted a bad theory by claiming that Albertson's is not entitled to rely on prices that competitors post on their own shelves.

Saldin predicted that, as a result of the attorney general's lawsuit, Washington grocers will be reluctant to compare their prices with those of their competitors. Saldin felt that if price comparison signs are forbidden, competition will lessen and grocery prices will rise. he said, "The Federal Trade Commission encouraged price comparisons and we believe consumers want them too. Grocery sales in Tacoma have become very competitive in the past year, and most supermarkets in the area have lowered prices and run some type of comparative price advertising."

Albertson's Inc., was founded in 1939, and has operated in Washington since 1951.

Have You Lost Your Job? Can't Find Another, Don't Panic

If you've lost your job and can't seem to find another because you need new skills, don't despair. The Department of Employment Security and Bates Vocational-Technical Institute have teamed up to help displaced workers find new opportunities.

Forty-three persons who lost their jobs at ASARCO, Simpson and Tacoma Boat now attend classes at Bates. Funding for the worker/students' education comes through Employment Security from the federal Trade Readjustment Act of 1974 and the Dislocated Workers Fund under Title III of the Job Training Act.

According to Bill Mohler, director of the district's vocational-technical education, Employment Security and Bates staff members evaluate the worker/students' previous background experience or knowledge they already have for their new career choice.

"The training at Bates is 'hands-on' where the student and instructor work in a one-on-one situation," Mohler emphasizes. "The classroom resembles the workplace with actual tools, equipment and projects. We are able to pattern each proram to a student's needs for learning new job entry skills in the shortest period of time."

Because of the unique training setting, 22 displaced workers who are receiving new skills in electronics at Tacoma Community College are also enrolled at Bates for the "hands-on experience."

Mohler says he and his staff will continue to monitor the Tacoma-Pierce County area so that when businesses are forced to close or layoffs are about to occur, potential displaced workers know there's a place to turn.

Chain Store Sued For Misleading Consumers

OLYMPIA, -- Albertson's Food Centers, one of the largest grocery chains in the state, has been sued by Attorney General Ken Eikenberry for incorrectly comparing its own prices with its competitors'.

The lawsuit is being filed in Pierce County because of problems that surfaced in a Tacoma-area store. However, the Attorney General is asking the court to prohibit the misleading price comparisons throughout the state.

"In Albertson's Tacoma stores, many shelf tags show not only Albertson's price for an item, but also the prices charged by other stores," Eikenberry stated. "Our investigation has shown that in a great many cases, the competitors' prices on the tags are incorrect, giving consumers the impression they are saving more money than they actually are."

Three separate surveys conducted at the Steilacoom Boulevard store in Tacoma support Eikenberry's allegations. In August 1985, 75 percent of the competitors' prices shown on tags were found to be incorrect. Surveys conducted in September and December of that year found 35 and 45 percent inaccuracy rates. The lawsuit alleges such incorrect price comparisons violate the state's Unfair Business Practices Act.

"The Fair Practices Division has been focusing on the problem of misleading advertising, and working toward educating retailers as well as taking action when violations are found," Eikenberry said. "Some of the other targets of this "task force" effort have been advertising by new and used car dealers and window blind retailers."

The Albertson's lawsuit asks for a permanent injunction against the inaccurate price comparisons, as well as payment of civil penalties and court costs. The suit was filed in Pierce County Superior Court by Assistant Attorney General Paula Selis.

Bellevue Urologist To Speak On Treatment For Impotence

Ten million American men are impotent. They have problems attaining or maintaining an erection. Until recently the only acceptable solution was some kind of penile implant, a hinged or inflatable device controlled by hand. Now there is a more natural treatment.

Bellevue urologist Roger E. Nellans M.D., a national authority on impotence, will be speaking about this new form of treatment to teachers and psychologists at the National Meeting of the American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists in Los Angeles on April 17, 1986.

The procedure of "Pharmacologic Erection", prescribed by Dr. Nellans at the Northwest Center for Impotence in Bellevue, involves injecting a drug called paparavine hydrochloride into the penis. The injection increases the flow of blood to the area in much the same way as occurs during a normal erection. The drug usually takes 10 or 15 minutes to take effect; but the same amount of time as it does to produce arousal during lovemaking. And the erection can last for two or three hours.

Dr. Nellans can be reached for comment at the Northwest Center for Impotence, 454-8016.

60-Minute Gourmet

By Pierre Franey

IN recent months countless words have been written about a "resurgence" of American cooking and an interest in American products, including goat cheese and foie gras. This culinary American pride has been reflected in subtle ways in my own kitchen, which is, of course, basically French. I have experimented, for example, with crepes made of cornmeal as a base for caviar and sour cream. Most recently, my family and friends found pleasure in platters of assorted seafoods that were dipped in a cornmeal batter before deep frying. The cornmeal gave the food an admirable texture and a nutty flavor.

Any commercial cornmeal will do, but I prefer the stone-ground or water-ground varieties available in health food stores; they seem to lend a better flavor and texture to the dish. The seafood included shrimp, scallops and shucked steamer clams.

The batter can be prepared in a few minutes; once coated, the seafood must be cooked quickly and served hot.

This kind of dish is addictive, like peanuts or popcorn, so, make more than you think guests will demand.

With the seafood I served a spiced mayonnaise and a salad of grated raw carrots and parsnips.

Batter-Fried Seafood With Cornmeal

- ¾ pound shrimp, about 30
- ½ pound bay or sea scallops
- ¾ pound shucked soft-shell clams
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup flour
- ⅓ cup milk
- Salt to taste if desired
- Freshly ground pepper to taste
- 2½ cups cornmeal, preferably stone-ground
- 3 cups corn, peanut or vegetable oil
- 1⅓ cups spiced mayonnaise (see recipe).

1. Peel and devein the shrimp and set them aside. If bay scallops are used, leave them whole. If sea scallops are used, cut them into quarters. If the clams are sandy, rinse them and let them drain.
2. Combine the egg and flour and beat in the milk, using a wire whisk. Add salt and pepper to the batter. Put cornmeal in a separate shallow bowl.
3. Heat the oil in a skillet or wok to 365 degrees.
4. Dip the shrimp into the batter and coat well. Then, dredge them in the cornmeal, coating thoroughly and shaking off excess. Set aside.
5. Add the clams to the batter and coat well. Drain in a sieve, allowing batter to fall back into a bowl. Empty the clams into the cornmeal and coat well. Shake off excess. Set aside separately.
6. Add the scallops to the batter and coat well. As with the clams, drain the scallops in a sieve and empty them into the cornmeal. Coat well. Shake off excess. Set aside.
7. Add the shrimp to the hot oil and cook until golden brown and crisp, about 2½ to 3 minutes. Drain on paper towels. Repeat with the clams and then with the scallops. Serve in combination on hot plates with spiced mayonnaise on the side.

Spiced Mayonnaise

- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard, preferably with seeds
- 1 tablespoon white vinegar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ cup corn, peanut or vegetable oil
- Salt to taste if desired
- Freshly ground pepper to taste
- 4 tablespoons finely chopped scallions
- 1 tablespoon sweet relish.

Put the egg in a mixing bowl and add the mustard, vinegar and lemon juice. Start beating while gradually adding the oil. Add salt and pepper. Beat in the scallions and relish and serve.

Yield: About 1⅓ cups.

Parsnip and Carrot Salad

- 4 fresh parsnips, about 1 pound
- 4 large carrots, about 1 pound
- ½ teaspoon cumin
- ¼ teaspoon dried, hot red pepper flakes
- 4 tablespoons white vinegar
- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- Salt to taste if desired
- Freshly ground pepper to taste
- ¼ cup finely chopped parsley.

1. Trim off and discard the ends of the parsnips and carrots. Scrape the parsnips and carrots. Grate each, using the coarse blade of a grater. There should be about 4 cups of each.
2. Combine the parsnips and carrots in a mixing bowl and add the cumin, pepper flakes, vinegar, oil, salt and pepper. Blend well. Sprinkle with parsley and serve.

Yield: 6 servings.
